MORE THAN 300 ENTERED IN RODEO AT COLUMBUS

Proceeds Will Go to Arts Gallery Directed by Former Marion Man

More than 300 contestants representing the United States and Canada are scheduled to be in Columbus the week of May 27 to June 4 to take part in an international stamper and rodeo which will be held at the state fairgrounds as a benefit for the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, according to an announcement made yesterday by Nick Albanese, Columbus publicity agent who was here promoting the event.

The rodeo, which is heralded as the biggest thing of its kind ever planned in this section of the country, is of special interest to Marion, due to the fact that Karl W. Bolander, director of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, is a former resident of this city. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bolander of St. Prospector.

After obtaining his early training in this city, he rose steadily to prominence until now he is recognized as one of Ohio's notables in art circles.

Profits from the rodeo, which is sponsored by some of the leading business men of Columbus, will go to the Gallery of Fine Arts.

Congress to Fix River

Somebody Will Want Mississippi To Empty into Grand Canyon, Where Levees Are Already Built, Will Rogers' Guess

BY WILL ROGERS

MY RANCH IS A FISH HATCHERY NOW.

WELL, all I know is just what I read in the papers. I wrote a little piece a few days ago in my daily gossip saying, "There was 10 photographers and Special writers at the Snyder trial to one at the Flood, and that if they put all those writers on the flood, with their dramatic descriptive powers that we would raise three times the quota and that there was more real heart interest in one family floating down a river on a houseboat than there was in all the Cornet Salomon in the World."

Well, my good friend Arthur Brisbane disagreed with me. He said "It should be that way Will, but it's not."

Now I sure don't want to argue with Arthur, for we agree on Need of Airships. We agree on Armaments. We agree on debt settlements. We agree on Boulder Dam. We agree on the ability of President Coolidge, and of Mr. Mellon, on China, Nicaragua, and a whole lot of things, so I am not going to fall out with him over Cornets, for I believe that flesh was intended to take its natural course and that it should be rounded up and confined in any given space, and anyone connected in that un-American enterprise of corrupting beef and making it uncomfortable did not deserve all this publicity.

The whole cornet industry is interfering with the "Liberty of American flesh." Now here is what I am going to argue with Arthur. I still claim that it is the papers that create the demand for anything. If they had nothing about the case outside the ordinary mention of it there would not be this wild curiosity. You couldn't get Brisbane to tell you that advertising doesn't pay. Say how can five or six pages every day entirely on one subject keep from advertising that particular case? It's the New York papers that make the case. Suppose the Hall-Mills case had happened in Arizona. Say you wouldn't even have seen a picture of the Apple Tree.

Must Be Home Nights
Of course I will admit that it couldn't have happened out there, for while they have got room for the late, they wouldn't have enough people to go in. But any case has got to be near enough to New York City so the photographers and writers can come back in for the night. Those Special Writers wouldn't cover anything outside of New York. Why, Chicago can furnish a better case than that every ten minutes, yet they never get a bit of publicity on them.

No, sir, you can't blame that on the Public. It's the papers that causes all interest in these things like this. If it wasn't in the papers for you to read you wouldn't know or care anything about it.

Who, some of New York's Tablelands had to cut their advertising down in order to make room for more evidence and pictures. And personally I think it was one of the worst photographed trials I ever saw. Both of them looked terrible. Any case you would pick out wires and they friends who are better to look on than these two.

Now we got that settled, we will take up the next business of the week. I got a wire from a very influential club in New Orleans saying the government has cut our levee at OLL ex-cesses and overflowed five counties, so that the SEWERAGE from Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis and Memphis can get past Canal street here in New Orleans. I wonder if there isn't a bit of truth in that statement. Even a town where people live on top of a hill they are not allowed to just throw everything out of their doors and let it roll down the hill on to the people that live at the bottom on the level ground.

Many Possibilities
Well I see where they are going to take it up in Congress when it meets in December, so that means that while next year's re-occurrence of this flood is devastating the country, why the authors will at least have the consolation that Congress is "Thinking" and talking about them anyway. There will be Bills introduced in there to regulate the rainfall. Some will suggest moving the river over in to some other Southern State. Some will suggest having it empty into the Grand Canyon where the levees on each side are high enough now without rebuilding them. Someone will introduce a Bill to have the River run up hill so it won't go so fast.

But the people down there don't put too much dependence on Congress. They can grow webbs feet quicker than Congress will relieve 'em. If I was down there I would make my next house a House Boat. I got a wire my lunch, I want I thought was a Cattle Ranch and a Fish Hatchery.

But Congress might fool us, and we up hope and pray they will, for nobody ever needed help it's those who down there.

Didn't Bother Andy
Now lets see what other business we can take up. Andy Mellon got a legitimate note from England last week, and it didn't get their interest or press cut down any. This Guy Mellon has been a Banker too long to let a few notes work on his sympathy. England ain't dealing with a Statesman now. They are dealing with a business man and incidentally just about as good a one as we get.

Headline in the paper says, "Young Man just out of College 5 years pays $200,000 record price for seat on Stock Exchange." Then you read on down where the man that sold it to him was retiring and had never been to school in his life. So I can't find much of a boost for Colleges out of that headline.

Lord, for two hundred thousand you could get into Charleston (South Carolina) Society, and that's the most exclusive place in the World. Cordage wanted to go there and apeak one time and they found some broken limbs on his family tree away back in the sixteenth Century and they had to call the visit off.

MEMORIAL RITES TO BE HELD AT BRUSH RIDGE

31 Veterans of Five Wars Will Be Honored Sunday,
May 29

Memorial services in honor of 31 veterans of five wars who are buried at Brush Ridge cemetery, about seven miles north of Marion, are to be held at the cemetery the afternoon of Sunday, May 29, with H. E. Hill, Marion County representative in the state legislature, giving the principal address.

Soldiers buried at the historic cemetery include two who served in the Revolutionary war, two in the war of 1812, one in the Mexican war, one in the Spanish American war and 25 in the Civil war.

Services are held annually but an unusually elaborate program is planned for this year. In addition to the address by Hill, there will be band and orchestra music and other features.
Arrangements are being made by officers of the Brush Ridge Cemetery Association.

were waiting for when arrested. The police returned to E. Center and Grand-ave where they arrested Miller when he arrived with a truck belonging to the Buttercrust Bakery. The truck, it was said by the prisoners, was to be used in hauling a number of tires found by the police in a garage in which was the stolen Chevrolet.

Find Second Car

The second car recovered by the police was a Moon, which police charge was stolen in Chicago by Needles and later traded to McAdams for the Chevrolet. According to the police, Mc-Adams admitted stealing the Chevrolet on Feb. 7 and making the trade with Needles. A bill of sale showing the transfer of the cars is in the hands of the police. The Moon was found in the McAdams garage.

Clyde Jenkins, 29, 497 Wilson av., implicated in the dealings of the gang by the three under arrest, was arrested at his home at 6:15 this morning and is being held at police headquarters for questioning.

Needles told the police the Chevrolet car had been in the city since the theft and had been used by him since trading with McAdams. According to Safety Director Strayer the car had been driven about 5,000 miles. The license plates had been replaced by Ford license plates.
McAdams said he had thrown the original license plates on the car into the river and had burned several books found in the car. He said he took the car within 10 minutes after the safety director had parked on E. Church-st in front of the True residence.

Police said that Needles would probably be taken back to Chicago.

look very dirty with or without shade and a hair cut.

First positions of course, don't pay a nickel at the judges stand or otherwise the boys who are paying $20 a night for hotel room and nothing a night for a park bench will have wasted their exceedingly important time. Still, the horses that break in front often wins the race.

Therefore, it may be noted with due appreciation that Rolled Sticking, liked by a lot of men who haven't looked further north than an ankle in years is No. 4. He is bounded by Buddy Bauer, who either starts fast or not at all, and Saxon, a horse who rushes to the front and then thinks better of it.
Event for Mudders.

Hydromed, the chills and fever entry, is No. 7, followed by Black Panther and Whiskery. The former is a slow starter, the latter a fast horse of the mark, so that Hydromed and Whiskery should get away without interference.
Blin Bar and Bostonian are coupled at Nos. 12 and 14, insuring a fair start since Omand is a fast breaker and Mr.
Kirkwood only is in there for the exercise.

There isn't anything out there toward the far edge of the track except Fred Jay, and Scapa Flow, the horse that kidded the east into betting rather critical money on his chances. Scapa, a fast breaker, is likely to eat off the rest at the pole and make the early pace but this event is not an early event. The finish, in fact, will be in front of that distant grandstand, a mile and a quarter away.

Further than that, it figures to be an event for mudders. Among the latter are Omand, Bostonian, first and last but not in the race, Black Panther, Scapa Flow and Fred Jay.

MAN HURT WHEN AUTO STRIKES WHEEL CHAIR

W. E. Bishop, 25, son of Mrs. C. E.
Bishop, 394 Breen-st, sustained injuries to his feet, right arm and right side when the wheel chair in which he was riding was hit by a machine driven by William Farley, about 9:30 o'clock last night while crossing W. Center st, at the alley near the Van Atta Hardware Store. He was removed to his home by Mr. Farley. Two ribs were fractured and he was badly bruised.
Mr. Bishop was thrown from his chair which was completely demolished.

TAKEN HOME

David E. Mooney, who was injured at the Commercial Steel Castings Co. where he is employed as ladleman, Wednesday, April 27, was today removed from City Hospital to his home, 749 W. Center-st, in the C. E. Curtis & Co. invalid car. His condition is reported much improved.

NO COURT SESSION

Due to the serious illness of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Fred C. Lutz, Judge William R. Martin held no court in municipal court today. Mrs. Lutz, who has been ill for the last several months, has been in an unconscious condition since Thursday night.

He called for a return of the old-fashioned national American patriotism which he said was becoming too thin under the activities of pacifists. He attacked a group of churchmen who only recently passed a resolution declaring they would never again participate in any warlike activity. Such a resolution, he asserted, is contrary to the great spirit of Americanism.

Want Peace, Claim

"Our country desires peace," the senator said. "It will continue to take all honorable steps to promote it, but no one present can suppose that the cause of peace can be advanced by leaving our country entirely without defense. Perhaps some of those men who are buried here would not have died if they had received proper military training. It is known definitely that thousands of our American boys who died in the World War need not have died if they had had time to receive proper training."

"I want my country to be helpful but I also want it to be independent," added the senator.

Senator Willis in the same breath declared that he did not want his country to be imposed upon, to the extent of paying other nations' cost in the World War. "The war debts will not be cancelled, not one dollar of them," he declared emphatically. The senator rapped university professors who recently called for foreign debt cancellation and, revealing his strong probi-tion front, rapped Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, whom he declared, knows nothing of the history or politics of his country. "If he did," said the senator, "he would not be giving the advice he is offering to Americans."

No man of either party, he emphasized, who is the embodiment of sentiment for nullification of the constitution and disrespect for law will sit in the presidential chair.

Calls on Children

The senior Ohio senator called on the children listening to him to learn of the service and sacrifice of the unknown soldiers at Fort Morrow. Their service and sacrifice, he said, made possible the free schools, the free worship of religion and the beneficent government the United States has.

Describing the history associated with Fort Morrow, Senator Willis said:

"Significantly enough the War of 1812 was won on the land in two great battles in what was known as the West—one the battle of the Thames under the leadership of William Henry Harrison and the other the Battle of New Orleans under the leadership of General Andrew Jackson. However, the victory at New Orleans came too late to be of effect. At least two events can be easily remembered with reference to the War of 1812—first, the greatest victory was won after the treaty of peace was signed, and second, the treaty of peace that was signed made no mention of the issue upon which the war was fought. After the battle of Fallen Timbers, General Anthony Wayne met the Indians and agreed to what is known in history as the Greenville Treaty Line. This would be a line of separation between lands under Indian control and those belonging to the United States. Historians and geographers advise that the exact location of this line is near the village of Waldo. The ground on which we stand is not far removed from the Greenville Treaty Line and Fort Morrow was, in effect, an outpost on that line after it was established. Following the surrender of General Hull at Detroit, tremendous effort was put forth by the American forces to regain the lost ground in the West."

Navy Assembled

"A little navy was hastily constructed on the shores of Lake Erie.
This navy wrote high on the scroll of fame the story of American valor. In the State House at Columbus in the famous picture, 'The Battle of Lake Erie' and today as one approaches the Island of Put-in-Bay he will see towering up out of the water the great monument erected in memory of the victory won and the friendship of the great movement to regain the West was carried forward on the land. This movement was led by General Harrison.
His forces were recruited quite largely from the west, especially from Ohio and Kentucky. The fact goes to prove the presumption that these graves are the burial places of Kentucky and Ohio soldier boys. One detachment of General Harrison's force passed northward through this vicinity and stopped for a very short time and while there erected a fort surrounding it with palisades. This was named Fort Morrow. A local historian who has studied the subject very carefully has induced me that the occasion of the first burial in this cemetery cannot be ascertained as a number of the soldiers of the War of 1812 here found their last resting place. Among the number probably was a Captain Flynn, who served with distinction with Col.
Croghan at Fort Stephenson. Others were private soldiers who were killed in battle or assassinated by murderous Indians."

Description of Fort Morrow

"Some description of Fort Morrow may not be uninteresting. One of our historians who has talked with people who had some personal recollection of the place and who had seen actual pictures of it tells us that the fort was near the Greenville Treaty Line and in the midst of the forest which was subdivided for miles in every direction.

suredly a little bit on which the soldiers were stationed. The fort was No doubt Rita Chaplin will be able to exist on $1,500 a month, but even she will admit that it's going to be an awful struggle.

A prisoner serving a short-time sentence over in Pennsylvania voluntarily took upon himself a life sentence. He married the sheriff's daughter.

Senator Borah says he will be unable to visit Europe this year. And we did so hope that the Hon. Bill would go across and visit his bolshevik friends over in soviet Russia!

No, Geraldine, it's the Burlington line which has adopted unusual whistles, not any of those passing through this city. There is no apparent relief in sight from the nightly infernal din of that eastbound midnight train.

From all accounts, China feels that it's against the law of nature for the tall to wag the dog, and she doesn't propose to stand for it any longer.

The Boston Post asks why books by American authors cost twice as much here as they do in England. The probable answer is that the publishers over here realize that we have twice as much money to pay for them.

This is a contrary old world of ours. Last year some venturesome souls tried to rush the straw hat season a bit, and were jibed, but this year the one-time venturesome souls seem to be jibing at the straw hat.

It gives something of an insight into the present-day way of living when one stops to consider how much more interest is shown in the fluctuations in the price of gasoline than is aroused by changes in the price of bread.

It is said that one can get used to almost anything and learn to like it, and why, figuring along this line, wouldn't it be no more than the decent thing for the "personal liberty" crowd to give prohibition a trial.

It is seriously proposed to place "Safety First" signs on automobiles for the protection of us true aristocrats of the land, but there seems to be a hitch over whether they shall be displayed upon the tops or upon the bottoms of machines.

In vetoing the bill which would enable municipalities to exercise the right of eminent domain for the acquiring of land for golf links, Governor Donahay may have figured that those behind the measure would be out playing golf all election day, anyway.

The federal authorities have decided to let the unexpurgated edition of "The Arabian Nights" come in, probably figuring that with the magazines freely offered for sale on the newsstands, the youth of the lands can hardly be much more corrupted.

Appropos of the offer by Mr. Heckacher of an annuity of $48,000 to Frieda Hempel upon her agreement not to sing in public, one naturally wonders if some such arrangement couldn't be effected in the case of Ganna Wolska.

So the "dog warden" act has been passed over Governor Donahay's veto! Another bureau and its army of snoppers to be maintained at the expense of the people of Ohio! Were the members of our general assembly as clever in saving as they are in spending the people's money, they would be justified in drawing the salaries they receive.

A Signal Compliment.

Governor Donahay's appointment of Ralph T. Lewis as one of four delegates to represent the state of Ohio at the annual national conference on state parks to be held at the Palisades Interstate park, New York, May 17 to May 20, inclusive, is something of an honor, and must have been very pleasing to Mr. Lewis. We know it was to this newspaper, as it was a compliment alike to a Marion man and Marion worth.

Had the naming of Mr. Lewis as a delegate been one of political expediency, as is so often the case, or the result of influence exerted in his behalf, the honor would not be one for so high appreciation, but we are told that it was made by the governor as the result of and in recognition of the services rendered by Mr. Lewis as a member of the state chamber of commerce committee on parks and beauty spots, on which committee he has been active and resourceful in the formation of a program looking to better park management and improvements to all public lands throughout the state. In a word, the appointment came as a result of the merit which the appointee is recognized to possess.

Some appointments are meaningless, but not one under such circumstances as mark this. To the contrary, it is a signal compliment, as such appointments ever are when made in recognition of merit, a mark of the esteem in which his past services in park matters are held by the governor, and Mr. Lewis must take it as such. To take it as less would hardly show appreciation of Governor Donahay's judgment in making it.

Freight as a Business Barometer.

It is alike interesting and pleasing to watch the freight business being done from week to week by the railroads of the land. Perhaps in no other way can we get a better line on business conditions in the country, for comparisons week by week of the current year with the business done the corresponding weeks of the preceding year and two years before give us an excellent index to the industrial and business trend, whether it be upward or in a downward course.

The showing for the week ended April 30, which presents the last figures available as it necessarily takes from ten days to two weeks for the rail carriers to collect and tabulate their figures and file them with the American Railway association, is a surprisingly good one, the grand total of revenue freight being 1,026,440 cars. It may be said, in passing, that the week was the fourth this year in which revenue freight loadings passed the million mark. The week's loadings exceeded by 71,225 cars those of the preceding week, substantial increases being shown in all commodities with the exception of coke, which showed a slight falling-off. The marked increases were in miscellaneous freight loadings, coal grain and grain products, ore and merchandise and less-than-carload-lot freight. Compared with the same week in 1926, the increase was 21,022 cars and it topped the record of the corresponding week in 1925 by 42,367 cars.

The miscellaneous freight loadings for the week were 395,414 cars, an increase of 8,844 cars over the corresponding week of last year and 36,784 cars over the corresponding week two years ago. Merchandise freight and less-than-carload-lot freight amounted to 265,178 cars, 2,274 over the business or the corresponding week in 1926 and 4,715 in excess of the same line of business during the same week in 1925. Grain loadings were 43,582 cars, 5,009 more than the loadings of the same week last year and 7,514 cars ahead of the same week's business in 1925.

A falling-off of 3,052 cars from the 1926 record was shown in coal loadings, but the week's business of 162,583 cars, despite this drop, was 11,829 above the coal loadings of the corresponding week two years ago.

All told, we are bound to consider the railroad freight business of the closing week in April a remarkable one. It would be a good showing under any circumstances, but when consideration is given to the fact that a strike of the bituminous miners is on, and the further fact that a great section of the land was suffering one of the worst floods in its history, it will be conceded that the magnitude of the week's business is most decidedly surprising. That such a record is attained under the conditions named speaks in no uncertain way of the prosperous operation of our industrial and commercial enterprises. It may also be said that the manifest ability of the rail carriers to handle such a volume of business without the slightest apparent difficulty shows that they have, beyond all question, staged a successful come-back to their old efficiency, which was so nearly dissipated during the period government management made chaos in the railroad world.

There's always some high purpose held out in the creation of useless jobs for the pap-suckers, and hence we assume that the "dog warden" law is for the protection of the flocks of Ohio, our legislators figuring that Buckeye canines will hesitate about affronting the dignity of the "dog wardens" by killing sheep.

As one reads editorial comment on the just sentence of Mrs. Snyder, there is bound to be realization of the marked change which has come over the land since a few years ago when women who killed their husbands were given the equivalent of gentle taps upon the wrist.

The suggestion of Senator Cole Blease, that Democracy nominate the Hon. William E. Borah, of Idaho, for the presidency may not appear to either the rank or the file of that party, but, if carried into execution, it certainly should bring joy to the G. O. P.

A 100-year-old board, nine feet long and weighing 800 pounds, was brought back from Ceylon when the Bolgenland arrived in New York from her 30,000-mile cruise around the world. Think of the feelings of an average drinker in a land where they raise 'em when he sights a thing like that!

There's an old one to the effect that one-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives, but the way the bootleggers are increasing, one-half the world over here within our national boundaries will soon know fairly well how the other half dies.

The paragraphs are inclined to look upon Judd Gray as a poor simp, but it's just the rare exception among them who occasionally take something for his stomach's sake who is inclined to envy him his marked ability to locate liquor apparently at any and all times and places.

"Aided by a 'magnificent contribution' from the Rockefeller foundation," says a London cable, "the University of London has been able to negotiate a new site." This talk of buying the friendship of Europe by forgiving her the debts she owes us is all rot. Were that possible, the splendid gifts of American philanthropists would have won her friendship long ago.

Poems That Live.

ILLUSTRATION.

God and I in a space alone, And nobody else in view,
 "And where are the people, O Lord?" I said,
 "The earth below and the sky overhead And the dead whom once I knew?"
 "That was a dream," God smiled and said,
 "A dream that seemed to be true, There were no people, living or dead, There was no earth and no sky overhead:
 There was only myself in you!"
 "Why do I feel no fear," I asked "Meeting You here in this way, For I have sinned, I know full well, And there is heaven and there is hell,
 And is this the judgment day?"
 "Nay, those were dreams," the great God said, "Dreams that have ceased to be,
 There are no such things as fear or sin, There is no you—You have never been—There is nothing at all but Me!" —Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Bathing To Check Irritation.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Pretty soon it will be hot, very hot. The air will just be blistering. Everybody will complain of the oppressive weather.

Have you ever thought how little babies suffer at such times. Their tender skins and sensitive bodies are tortured, even more than are ours.

When you come from the street, all hot and dusty, what do you like to do? The first thing you think about is a bath.

Just as a bath is good for you, it is good for the baby. So in hot weather don't forget the importance of frequent bathing for the infant.

Of course, you can't put a little baby in a bath tub and then run away and leave it. You must be there every minute. But even so young an infant as six or eight weeks may be placed in three or four inches of water, with head carefully supported. An older child can be trusted in a tub with more water. Floating playthings, a basin to dip water, a big sponge or a floating cake of soap, may be given the child to amuse him.

You must be careful to dry the skin thoroughly and in such a way as not to chafe or irritate it. Even if it is hot, you must take care, too, not to let the child be chilled. After a bath of proper length there will be a glow and pleasant reaction. This is as it should be.

Don't tuck the infant into his crib or cab, all bundled up in hot pillows and blankets. Have a breath!

Select a cool room, spread a sheet over a flat surface, couch or mattress, and place your baby on this glorious place for kicking and squirming. Forget about clothing—let the youngster have free use of his limbs and body.

Just, dirt, flies, mosquitoes and all pests must be kept from the baby. Proper screening is essential.

Sunbaths on cooler days and fresh air on all days, should be the rule in your household. By the way, this should be the rule for the mother, too. She will benefit in health and strength by giving herself fresh air, sunlight and frequent baths.

You get thirsty on a hot day. So does the baby. Give water frequently. Of course, this will be water which has been boiled and cooled. You must take no chances on infection with contaminated water.

The best of milk, properly prepared, orange juice, and moderation in feeding, are further suggestions for hot weather and all kinds of weather, too. The welfare and growth of the baby depends on your watchfulness in the matters of feeding.

Precautions like these will help in carrying the baby through the hottest of weather without bad effects.

Editorial Comment.

A CHECK ON PUDICITY.

A law passed last winter by the Delaware general assembly, which prohibits newsmen and spectators from attending divorce trials, was put into operation for the first time in Wilmington last week. In one or two other states of the union somewhat similar laws have been in effect for some time, but nowhere in this country, perhaps, has this check upon publicity ever been so strictly enforced as in this Delaware case. It is an interesting innovation, the results of which will bear watching.

There is room for much discussion of opinion as to the wisdom of secret divorces. It may well be argued that it is the fear, or dislike, of publicity that deters many from seeking the divorce courts, but, on the other hand, there is something to be said for any system that will spare the public the degrading and often sordid details that divorce trials so often provide. In England the law, of recent passage, does not prohibit the attendance of the public, but it does strictly enjoin the press from publication of the details of such trials. In this connection—and at this time when we have been having more than our share of news of a particularly disgusting murder trial—it may be well to consider how much more sensibly than ours all the courts in England guard against undue publicity. A graphic report of a trial is perfectly legitimate, and in the courtroom it is generally admitted to be a good thing. But no reporters, correspondents or editors are permitted to give their own personal reactions to what is going on. If they do they are liable to contempt of court and subject to severe punishment.

A little of this British reticence would be an excellent thing for us to import.—Philadelphia Record.

THE MURDERERS ARE UNANIMOUS.

Mrs. Snyder and Judd Gray have been sentenced to death. Both tried to escape that penalty, the woman with particular vindictiveness, by getting away from the trial and the man with the woman with real hope, to gain life imprisonment. She has been in a physical collapse since she heard the verdict.

A Chicago runner of Canadian beer and whisky was stopped by a Michigan policeman. He offered the policeman a bribe of $500 to allow him to go. The policeman refused. Then the runner shot and killed him. He was arrested in Chicago and confessed. He said he was sorry he had shot his honest man and that he was going to go back to Michigan and take his punishment.

He can not be hanged for that crime in Michigan. The killer may be sorry, but he is not as sorry as he would be if the crime might require his own life. The recent Michigan legislature, refusing to restore capital punishment, kept the terror out of Michigan law for murderers.

Little Fennekes, the ratlike murderer, who has his jailers constantly using the word "penitentiary" of death and under sentence to the penitentiary for robbery. When the supreme court ordered a new trial on the murder charge the killer was cleared to consider that he might escape with nothing but a long penitentiary sentence for robbery.

They do not like the rope. Life in the penitentiary is a release from the real penalties of the law. Loeb and Leopold found it so, and Clarence Darrow fought to keep law-abiding citizens as to such argument, but there is none among murderers. They are one and all opposed to it.—Chicago Tribune.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

When Sinclair Lewis was addressing a group of preachers in Kansas City he shocked some of them by daring God to strike him dead. Shortly after that challenge Lewis brought out his latest book. Reading it, one is forced to agree with William Allen White, the Kansas editor, who insists that God took Lewis at his word. Of course Sinclair Lewis doesn't know it, or at least won't admit it, but that is apparently what happened to him.

Man has to hurry to beat the other birds products of nature. He can devise and invent, but old nature still knows a trick or two. A homing pigeon recently won a race between Paris and Brussels against an aeroplane.

It is said that saxophones are driving bagpipes out of Scotland. There may be those who doubt the beauty of the music of the bagpipe, but it is still many a sweet strain ahead of the saxophone. And while men have known the march to valiant death to the stirring notes of the bagpipe, few have marched farther than a night club to the so-called music of the saxophone.

Scientists and theologians still talk about the soul. Has man a soul or hasn't he? What is it like, where does it go, and does it live forever? Perhaps Bishop Mouzon puts it right when he reverses our thinking and our statement. He says: "It's not a question of whether man has a soul. Man is a soul and has a body."

A comforting and inspiring thought for young people is that there are many roads to fame. The main job is to pick one and persist in traveling it. In the Hall of Fame in New York you will find a bust of Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Few Americans played a greater part in ending human slavery. And in the same Hall of Fame is a bust of Charlotte Cushman, the actress. There are roads and roads and roads. Do you know these lines of John Ozanam:

"To every man there openeth A way, and ways, and a way;
 And the high soul climbeth the high way And the low soul gropes the low;
 And in between on the misty flat,
 The rest drift to and fro.
 But to every man there openeth A high way and a low,
 And every man decideth
 The way his soul should go."

Views of Those in Public Eye.

MATTHEW WOLL.

Matthew Woll, writer and speaker on labor and economic topics, was born in Luxembourg, January 25, 1880. He came to the United States in 1891. Since 1906 he has been president of the International Photo-Engraving Union of North America, and he holds office in a number of the labor organizations, including the American Federation of Labor, of which he is vice president. During the war period, Woll served as a member of the war labor board, and as assistant to Samuel Gompers, chairman of the committee on labor of the council of national defense. He was also a member of President Harding's unemployment conference.

Mr. Woll holds that the bankers of the country have the right to break down that they are not to profit thereby. He says: "It is the bankers who are hopeful that the American tariff wall may be broken down in order that this unfavorable balance of trade may favor the payment of their investments and who, too, would have the public debt reduced by cancellation or modification in order to make more room for their private investments."

On the other hand the industrialists, in charge of an ever-growing productive machine that must obtain ever more and greater outlets for surplus production, are fearful of an invasion of our home markets and a consequent disruption, if not destruction of our gigantic production machine. Their hope and faith in the maintenance of America's protective tariff wall, indeed America's workers' interest are much akin to that of American industrialists, for whatever will destroy or retard our production activities is bound to reflect itself upon the conditions and opportunities of employment.

"All interests, however, realize fully that national debts due our country should be reduced if not canceled, not by reason of economic considerations, but because of economic and industrial requirements."
 Let no one, therefore, be deceived that all is well and that America is secure. We are all living in a world of pretense and hatred. America can no more isolate itself from the Old World than can the Old World disregard the New. We are more interdependent than ever, and if the problems of the world are to be solved in an orderly and peaceful manner, they must be accomplished by reason and not by force, by fairness and not by injustice, by human considerations and not by a narrow and selfish nationalism.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Tuesday.
 William E. Corey finally found a minister, and he and Mabelle Gilman were married shortly after midnight, took the Kaiser Wilhelm II and were on the high seas enroute for Europe.

Fred Spring was hit by a local street car at the up-town switch and was badly hurt. His skull was fractured.

David W. Narrance, a former Marion man, died at his home in Los Angeles at the age of seventy.

The Interstate Commerce commission reported that E. H. Harriman was absolute master of one-third of the rail transportation lines of the country.

Miss Irma Sonntag was hostess to the Y. P. S. C. E. of the United Brethren church at her home on Pleasant street. A fine program was given by Misses Goldie Gelbaugh, Hilda Pangborn, Bessie Fowler and Lottie Campbell and Messrs. Ralph Smith, Lawrence Ames and Byron Reed.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MONTRE.

New York, May 14.—No free attraction seems to attract so much attention in Manhattan as the display in the windows of sporting goods stores. Here pale eiders and mallards, and leopards and tigers stand riveted to dream awhile of the great outdoors.

It is a momentary hiatus from the rising "cat at a tail, the clanging cars, screeching sirens and overtime of a metropolitan madley. The bookkeeper escapes from his figures and in an imaginative moment fits himself into wide-pocketed hunting coats to flush quail. Or stalk deer.

The care-worn stenographer dons flannel skirt and blazer to go swinging around the course. And the grizzled old A. D. T. messenger, with perhaps an atrophied dangling arm, stands fixed before a brace of guns listening to the baying of dogs treeling a bear.

Youth, middle and old age seem spellbound in presence of this cliffed call to the hills, the streams and forests. And after traffic desolation groups will clot in front of the windows staring in the manner of birds charmed by the snake.

It offers a reverse picture of the prairie boy with his dog at the railroad crossing watching the dazling and thundering overland express out of sight. Scores of pinch-faced cliff dwellers are always to be found in the expansive show rooms. Just entering, in the window are a brace of blue metal gun saddles and quirts, nickel-plated reels and collapsible rods, dude wrangling dinner sets in alligator skin cases, pocket shaving outfits, thick-soled hunting boots, breakfast tom-toms, pup tents, forest library sets, camp radios and the like.

There are archery sets, ping pong boards, checkers, chess, croquet, rubber cards, shuffling board, tree hammocks, gaudy golf hole hunting coats, red silk bandanas, snakebite serum in bright nickel plated boxes, fur-lined gloves and sun goggles.

It was Fred C. Kelly who espied a nattily-dressed man in a crowded subway express carrying an ax. "Ah," observed Kelly to a friend, "a woodsman from Brooklyn."

The one galled boy with the crownless straw hat who slings a shot gun over his shoulder, calls his hound, Drum, and swings off on a long hunt would doubtless be bewildered at the duds and trappings for the modern hunters. There are even manure sets for them.

In those pleasant chain restaurants featuring a background of marble and mirror will always be found a sprinkling of lone and middle aged New York ladies. Sometimes they come in pairs, but usually they are alone. One has the impression it is their idea of a night out to dine in the clutter of the glass topped tables. They finger—and most of them indulge in a care over the coffee. And doubtless they are all the way back and forth. Some are those living on slight incomes, but the majority are office women showing the pinch of under-salaried lives.

I once started conversation with a middle-aged lady at an adjoining table. One of those "Southern cooking" places. She told me that outside of the lady who conducted the rooming-house where she lived she had not talked to another soul in ten days. "And," she added, "down in my Georgian town I was considered the gabbiest woman there."

Lonely Clubs in Manhattan have been numerous, but never successful. The idea of being tagged as lonely drew up conversation. And after one visit few return.

It is my opinion there is no excuse for loneliness in New York. The big problem here is to get away from people.—Copyright, 1927.

Dinner Stories.

"One day," said a story-teller, "at the close of a hot day, Adam was returning with his hoe on his shoulder from a hard day's labor to his humble cottage. Maybe it was a warm day, but it wasn't matter, for it was a humble abode. Young Cain was running ahead, boy-like, throwing rocks at the birds. Suddenly they came upon a beautiful garden. 'Oh, father,' said Cain, 'look at that beautiful garden! I wish we could live there.' 'We did live in that garden,' said Adam regretfully, 'until your mother ate us out of house and home.'"

"My niece is quite theatrical," remarked old Mrs. Blumenshine. "Next week she is taking

DIVORCE SUIT HEARD LOCAL COURT

Decrees Granted, One to former Minister on Desertion Charge

Three suits, including one by a former minister of the Marion County Common Pleas Court, resulting in the granting of four decrees. The fifth case the most warmly contested of the lot, was taken under advisement by Judge Scotfield pending property settlement between the litigants.

This suit, for which 32 witnesses had been summoned, was brought by Harry D. Diller against Myrtle B. Diller. After 22 of the witnesses had been questioned, Judge Scotfield brought the proceeding to a close with the announcement that he had heard sufficient testimony and would give his decision later.

Charges Desertion
The former minister granted a divorce was Rev. Joseph Beach, who alleged that his wife, Anna Beach, deserted him while they were living in Atlanta, Ga., and he was a pastor of a Seventh Day Adventist Church there.
She left in company with another man, Reverend Beach said in his petition, and has not been seen or heard from since that time.

In deserting him, Reverend Beach states, his wife left him in charge of their three children, Gertrude, S. James, G. and Richard.

The couple were married in Tulsa, Okla., on May 19, 1925. Reverend Beach was formerly a resident of Marion. He is now connected with an insurance agency in this city.

He was represented in the divorce suit by the law firm of Mosser, Young & Mosser.

Diller Hearing Hearing of the Diller suit disclosed that Mr. and Mrs. Diller were married in this city Oct. 2, 1934, and have one child, a daughter, 9.

In his petition Diller charges gross neglect and his wife denied all allegations and filed counter charges.

Mosser, Young & Mosser represented Diller and L. E. Myers was attorney for Mrs. Diller.

Mrs. Nellie Burnett was granted a divorce from Morrison Burnett on the grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty. She was also granted custody of the four minor children. Burnett, now a resident of Huntington, W. Va., did not contest the suit. The couple were married in Columbus on Nov. 2, 1917. L. E. Myers was attorney for Mrs. Burnett.

Mrs. M. Mason was granted a divorce in her suit against Aaron O.
Mason, in which she charged desertion, gross neglect and failure to provide.
The husband in his answer alleged that Mrs. Mason had failed to take proper care of her home and family and finally went to the home of her parents, refusing to return.

Home E. Johnson was attorney for Mrs. Mason and James H. Eymon represented Mason.

FARMERS ARE URGED TO SPEED BORER FIGHT

Will Receive Extra Compensation for Work After May 1, Official Says

With state authorities ready to start next week making a clean sweep of the nine townships in the northern half of Marion County, included in the corn borer quarantine area, a final appeal came today from corn borer campaign headquarters urging farmers who are doing the work themselves to complete it as soon as possible.

The appeal was issued by L. H.
Worthley, federal administrator in charge of the anti-corn borer campaign in five states, to spike the rumors that farmers would not be compensated for extra labor put on the work after May 1.

"If a man has 40 acres almost cleaned up, but needs just a few hours more work to complete the job," Mr.
Worthley said, "the wise thing to do is to spend those extra hours now and thus qualify for the extra labor fee offered by the government.

"Whether his extra labor dates before or immediately after May 1 makes no difference. The 40-acre tract with extra labor is insured, so long as the government does it voluntarily. If the owner or tenant will not be compensated. Instead, he will be charged for the time the government forces have expended."

"The farmer who cooperated with the government will receive every possible and reasonable concession from the government."

Trosseau and Wedding Clothes Now Occupy June Bride

BY MRS. LISBETH
SPRING is a busy time with the ladies. What with house cleaning and decorating, graduations and most absorbing of all weddings.

The bride's tressau, her bridal dress and those of her bridesmaids occupy the time and thought of her family and herself for a long time before the wedding day. The getting away clothes of the bride must be smart but practical too. And of course much depends on where the honeymoon is to be spent. Above at the extreme left is a smart coat fashioned of black satin combined with black crepe. It has an unusual front fullness and closing effect as well as a grille that is slipped through a buckle and bell cuffs—all of the crepe. It is collared in the finest tufted mole. A simple little black or black and white dress or any desired color could be worn under this coat and the plain black patent pumps, black gloves with white stitching and black and white hat complete this chic ensemble.

A fetching "poker" hat in composite colors is sketched next. It is made of orchid hair with trimming and band roll of matching velvet, with black flat on the crown and brim.

The Bridal Party

The bridal party occupies the center of the picture, as is fitting. The bride's gown, cut in period style and very long, is fashioned of silk with a cap of rose point and tulle veil. The arrangement of the latter is simple and becoming. The brides have an oval neckline and is sleeveless. Barbara Worth posed.

The maid of honor at the bride's right is dressed in Nile green tulle embroidered in flowers which shade from pale rose to deep red. Her hat matches the dress in color and is of horsehair and maline. Carmelita Geraghty is the model.

The bride-maid's ruffy flock (to the left of the bride) is another period model in apricot satin and silk net. Each ruffle is edged with gold thread. This hat, too, is horsehair and maline and matches the dress with which it is worn. Both the attendants' dresses have huge sashes tied at the left side in front. Violet LaPlante posed here.

A little dinner frock in the popular black and white is at the Georgette—half of each color is used with trimming motifs of crass and jet.

A demure little suit which might be chosen for the traveling costume is sketched at the extreme right. It would be a practical addition to the tressau anyway. It is a three-piece and includes a short jacket and pleated skirt of black flat crepe. The blouse in vanilla georgette has a monogram embroidered in black with sunray tuckings surrounding the V-shaped neckline. It is belted.

Things
Furniture Hairdressing
Tire Garters

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

If you have a wild desire to give vent to an original creation in furniture now is your time to get in the vanguard of creators and strut your stuff. If you have a hankering for a rocking chair with two seats, one back and one set of rockers, or a bed with the double duty of bed and indoor swimming pool there is no reason why you should not have it according to those who claim to know. The big idea is to suit your own particular need or wish regardless of period or style, so if you want a round bed or a combination radio cabinet and dining-table top to it. In fact we owe it to ourselves to get busy for it seems nearly all the European countries have been in the business for some time and only America lags behind. I only hope the electrical wizards will join in the game and invent something which only requires the pressing of a button to change a kitchen cabinet full of dirty dishes into an inland piano with a scarf of old world tapestry.

To bob or not to bob is a much mooted question these days. There are those who emphatically agree that the sun has set on the short bob and only those in a class with Mary Pickford are coiffed within fickle fashion's favor. Male dress reformers assert that "it is more dignified" to be possessed of one's locks and holds up as a shining example the maid or matron who has whisked the bobbing epidemic. Certain journalistic critics have spoken in praise of the lengthy locks while stage folk who have not succumbed are regarded as pillars to which may be anchored the dignity of the profession. Of course we who are sold on the short locks, sniff at any idea of a return to the coiff which in our honest opinion will only be a forerunner of bustles, hat pins and high top shoes and swear a more profound allegiance to our barber. I guess the real truth of the matter is that it is up to the individual after all, and if you look more felching suns locks, keep to it, or if long hair is more alluring in your particular style of beauty do by all means, keep it, grow it or purchase it. It's my honest conviction though, that so long as the p. w. g. battles the wolf she will keep to the bob in order to get the most out of the time which would of necessity have to be devoted to proper dressing of the long locks.

HAVE you purchased a pair of those clever miniature automobile tires yet? They're really garters but one would never dream it. They make the most perfect roll and best of all they give one such a feeling of assurance that that pesky seam is going to stay where it belongs, to say nothing of the cumfiness to be found in a pair of these necessities free from knots of ribbons and bows.

Local Y. M. C. A. In Constant Service More Than 35 Years

Association Incorporated April 25, 1892; Has Had Remarkable Growth

BY MARTIN VERBURG
The Marion Young Men's Christian Association was incorporated on April 25, 1892. On June 6 of the same year the association passed an ordinance permitting the necessary excavations and city now to the Marion Y. M. C. A. through Amos Kling. To-day 35 years after the first Y. M. C. A. was organized in London, England, the Marion Y. M.
C. A. home was erected.

The names of the following citizens of Marion are found among the incorporators: Jesse A. Hunter, Dr. Ernest Edwards, Jacob G. Leffler, John E.
Markert, John W. Hendley, Charles E.
Bueckle, Eugene Shupe, Samuel H. Keller, William C. Dennison, Lewis Guan-Edward Huber, William J. Grills and John P. Lust. The name of the corporation is "The Young Men's Christian Association of Marion, Ohio."

Objective unchanged On Aug. 18, 1892 the members of the corporation met again and adopted a constitution which had been carefully drawn and was presented by Amos Kling. The fundamental purpose of which the association was founded was clearly stated in the preamble from which is quoted the following:

"We, the subscribers, actuated by a desire to promote evangelized religion among the young men of the city of Marion, Ohio, and vicinity, and of strangers coming among us, and to improve their spiritual, mental, social and physical condition, and impressed with the importance of concentrated effort in accomplishing these objects, and desirous of forming an association in which we may together labor for these great ends, hereby agree to adopt for our government the following: There then appeared the usual articles and sections common to the constitutions in organizations of this kind.

We note, however, that the ideas of what constituted a member was quite different from what it is today. The membership was divided into four classes: active, sustaining, life and honorary. Any man who was a member in good standing in an evangelized church and who paid the required fee of $5 was eligible to active membership in the organization. Any man of good moral character might become a sustaining member by paying in advance the sum of $5. Any person of good moral standing might become a life member by the payment of $40 at any one time.

And any member in good standing in an evangelized church might be elected to honorary membership without any fee. All of these classifications have been materially changed since that time.
Marion's original constitution did not allow anyone to belong who was not at least 14 years of age. In later years this was changed to 12 years and today stands at 18.

The Resurrection Body

A SERMONETTE
BY REV. S. S. HARDY, Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Over this season of Easter is cast the reflection of the cross. But it is a glorified cross reflecting the glory of the resurrection, symbol of the triumph of life over death.

Belief in the resurrection of the dead was a distinctive contribution of the crucified and risen Christ gave to the world. Believing in the resurrection of the dead, the Egyptians embalmed those they deemed worthy of being raised again. Diogenes revealed the futility of such a faith when, lying in the sepulcher, he cynically replied to the question of the resurrection: "I seek the dust of my state, but cannot distinguish it from that of my royal ancestors." With still profounder insight St. Paul taught that resurrection is much more than mere resurrection. "They do not rest that shall be" for "Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God." While Plato and many other philosophers taught immortality of the soul beyond them and, having his belief upon the experience of Christ, taught that resurrection from the dead is much more than the escape from the bondage of disembodied spirits.

If we are to persist personally after death we must come to a new body in a particular center. Now it is this center that St. Paul calls the "spiritual body," and it is of this body that he says: "We know that this earthly house of our tabernacle is dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

Possibly this spiritual body, which will rise when we shed off this mortal skin, is now in the making. Like water penetrating soil it may now be intermingling with ones physical body taking on such features as will make such recognizable in the world to come. At any rate, through all the changes which our mortal bodies undergo, St. Paul teaches, there is some connecting link to continue ones personal identity just as the life germ passes out of the dying seed of grain and perpetuates itself in blade, stalk and ear, so there must be some vital relationship and similarity between the present body and that which is to be.

As our earthly bodies are the best possible integuments through which our souls express themselves and build for themselves in this physical environment, so our resurrection bodies will be ideal vehicles for spirits to manifest, express and develop themselves in a wholly spiritual environment.
These are wonderful thoughts on which to ponder through Easter-tide to acknowledge. From His resurrection to His ascension, Christ manifested Himself repeatedly in just such a glorified resurrection body as we too hope some day to have.

SESSION OF PROPERTY RIGHT IN SUIT

Straw Brings Recov-eration Against J. W.
Cherman and Wife

Leatherman and his wife, Cherman, are defendants in the suit in the Court of Common pleas by Artemus Straw, in which he seeks to recover possession of land in Bowling Green which he deeded to the city on Jan. 1, 1925.

Cherman's charge that Straw has failed to fulfill the purchase contract, and immediately granted a restraining order against Mr.
Cherman from selling the land in any way.

Years ago, relates that contract, Mr. and Mrs.
Cherman gave him their note for in two years, and in addition to farm 168 acres of land and to give him all the proceeds raised during 1925 and Threats Were Made that on Sept. 1, 1925, as of threats of damage and against him by the defendants was induced to turn the $2,000 note over to them, although they had made no payments on it. Straw says his advanced age made it impossible for Mr. and Mrs. Leatherman to exercise this influence over him.

The petition states that the defendants have sold all of their farming implements, and are preparing to move out of Marion County and are trying to sell or encumber the land.

The petition asks that the deed be set aside and that Straw be restored to full possession of the land. He is represented by the law firm of Carhart & Warner.

In granting the temporary injunction restraining the Leathermans from disposing of the land or placing any indebtedness against it, Judge Scofield fixed a bond of $2,000.

Case Settled
The suit of James B. Messenger as county treasurer, brought against Anna Thew in the Court of Common Pleas for collection of a tax assessment amounting to $54.09 levied against a lot in Caledonia, has been settled and the court costs paid.

CONSERVATION LEAGUE MEETS AT WARNER HOME

Mrs. Clara Geer Addresses Group; Luncheon at Hotel Harding May 19

Mrs. Clara Geer whose appointment as school nurse by the Childs Conservation League seven years ago, paved the way for the establishing of the present child welfare work in the schools, was one of the speakers at the meeting of the League held at the home of Mrs.

Fred Warner, Girard, Thursday night. Mrs. Geer was a very nurse spoke on the work being done by her branch of the city government.

Mrs. A. H. Kline, who spoke on the subject "The Health and Physical Development of the School Children," was also one of the speakers. Following their usual custom, the League voted to present to the City Library the two copies of the child welfare books used by them during the past year as a study book.

Reports of the recent Federation of Women's Club convention were given by Mrs. O. C. Aispaugh and Mrs. John McLean. Hostesses were Mrs. Fleeta Hankel, Mrs. Charles Barker and Mrs.
F. M. Sage.

A luncheon meeting at the Hotel Harding on May 19 will close the league season. The next elected officers will be installed at that time.

CRYSTAL PARK OPENING TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON

Date Is Postponed by Necessity of Repairs at Resort

Plans for opening of Crystal Lake Park for the season are well under way and an announcement fixing the date probably will be made next week.
Fred H. Scherff, manager, said today.
The opening was planned originally for May 15, or before, but improvement work at the park made this impossible.

The dance pavilion is open each night. Manager Scherff announced today that Guy Lombardo and his Royal

Baptist President

Rev. George W. Truett, pastor of the First Baptist church of Dallas, Texas, is the new president of the Southern Baptist convention. He was elected at the seventy-second annual session of the convention held at Louisville, Ky.

Canadian orchestra will be here next Wednesday night for a return engagement. The Blossom Heath dance pavillion at Cleveland, where Lombardo was booked for the summer was making this engagement possible.

STREITENBERGER CASE DUE TO JURY TUESDAY

Promises To Be Shortest of Murder Trials in Don Mellett Slaying

Canton, May 14—Promising to be the shortest of the Don R. Mellett murder cases to date, trial of Floyd E.
Streitenberger, ex-police officer of Canton, charged with first degree murder, for alleged complicity in the killing of the youthful publisher of the Canton Daily News here last July 10, will enter the final stage Monday, when the defense is expected to rest. The jury of nine men and three women probably will get the case Tuesday.

Court was adjourned late Friday over the week-end, after both prosecution and defense had agreed to the intermission.

Taking the stand in his own behalf, Friday afternoon, Streitenberger denied every charge of the state.

He declared he never held enmity against Don Mellett, the slain editor, denied ever seeing Patrick McDermott, convicted slayer of Mellett, previous to McDermott's trial, and denied discussing with Louis Mazer any plan of attack on the publisher. He characterized Mazer as a "liar and a no-account bootlegger."

Jointly indicted for the crime, Mazer turned state's evidence and the prosecution is said to have strongest hope for conviction of the former detective, on his testimony.

Streitenberger asserted Mellett's editorials concerning him "had not worried me any," and that he "didn't think much about them."

FACULTY LEADS HIGH SCHOOL BALL LEAGUE

Win Three Without Suffering Defeat; Sophomores Fall Behind

The Faculty is far ahead of its opponents in the high school recreational ball league. It has now won three games and suffered no defeats. Its closest rivals are the Seniors and Vernon Heights. Each has won two and lost one.

The Sophomores, after getting well under way during the first week and leading the league for several days, have fallen hard and far. They lost both games in which they participated this week. Harding High Juniors have only played two games and have a 500 average. Central Juniors have won and lost two while the Vocationals occupy the cellar with two defeats and no victories.

Here's the standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Faculty	3	0	1.000
Seniors	2	1	.666
Vernon	2	1	.666
Sophomores	2	2	.500

RUTH SNYDER PENTINENT, ACCORDING TO CHAPLAIN

Still Believes She Can "Beat" Sentence and Electric Chair

Long Island City, N. Y., May 14—

Ruth Snyder Snyder, who on Monday will be taken to the death house in Sing Sing has developed "a profound sense of penitence." Rev.
Patrick Murphy, Roman Catholic chaplain, said today after visiting her.
She has not, however, embraced religion as strongly as has her one-time sweetheart, Henry Judd Gray, who also makes the trip "up the river" on Monday. In fact, she couched to one inmate in the Queens County Jail that she fears no church nor God can ever forgive her for her sins.

Gray spends much of his time in his cell on his knees. He assures all those who talk to him that he was "made his peace with God." He will go to Sing Sing absolutely penniless, having signed over everything to his wife.

The condemned woman still clings to the hope expressed by her counsel that she can "beat the sentence and the electric chair." The appeal of her case is expected to be based principally on the court's refusal to grant her a separate trial. Lawyers said that Justice Townsend Snyder's refusal to grant separate trials in the case of Mrs. Snyder and Gray was the first time a court had yielded itself of that part of the Baumes laws giving a judge discretionary powers.

The COMMANDER
A STUDEBAKER BIG SIX

Commander dust on hills and highways

From one Coast to the other, the Commander is smashing records of speed, records of hill climbing, records of miles!

100 Miles in Less Than 5000 Minutes

Recent sensational test at California, California, under the auspices of the American Automobile Association, Harry Harts three other noted pilots drove the Commander—a strictly stock, fully-equipped sedan car—5000 miles in 4959 minutes, total elapsed time—establishing new world records.

It is better than million-mile speed for 81 consecutive hours and 49 minutes—the fastest speed for the longest distance ever attained by any stock car!

Commander Out-Climbs All Other Cars

Another public contest, five automobile dealers at Santa, N. Y., challenged Studebaker's repeated claim that the Commander will out-perform any other car in the world. The Commander won every test within a thousand feet of its price. The scene was a long hill Bavaria with an average grade of 10%.

Commander won every test —creeping test, standing and flying start. Then, to the climax, the Commander climbed seventeen times, weighing seventeen pounds to the top in high the speedometer reading 35 at the start and 22 miles at finish.

Harry Harts wired us, after setting 10 new world records in The Commander:

"Based on my experience driving my personal Studebaker Commander and in City Speedway with a Studebaker Commander strictly stock model, it is my opinion that it will maintain any given speed up to 65 miles per hour longer, and at less expense, per hour traveled, for gasoline, oil and repairs, than any other stock automobile now being built in the United States."

EXPERIMENT OF LOCAL CONCERN IS SUCCESSFUL

Jay H. Maish Co. Finds International Demand for "Fill-in" Product

How a dull season "fill in" became a subject of international demand, is the interesting story surrounding the "unusual" letterhead created and developed a local advertising and printing company.

About a year and a half ago the Jay H. Maish Co., of E. Marion, considered the idea of putting out something different in letterheads. The idea was conceived with the thought of providing work for the press during the dull period of July and August, a season decided by all commercial printers.
Artists employed by the company in the preparation of direct mail advertising, were put to work designing letterheads in colors, the designs to be different without violating good taste.

Samples Printed

Sample letterheads were printed and mailed to companies and letter writers throughout the country. The results were surprising to the company. The "fill in" was making unbooked for orders. Efforts were doubled and greater because the demand for the "unusual" letterheads.

No unusual was the success of the project that "The Island Printer," the chief in its May number to run an eight-page insert showing some of the designs in colors and also paying tribute to the local company for its achievement.

The popularity of the "unusual" let-terhead has continued to spread until today, orders are received from practically every important city in the world. China, England, Siam, Australia, Sweden, Belgium, France, New Zealand, of the old world and Mexico, Cuba and South American countries of the new world all have customers of this company.

Three vertical automatic presses are used in the production of these letter-heads and three artists are employed to draw designs. Approximately 100 designs, products of the artists, employed by the company, are now in the hands of prospective customers. During the month of April one of the fields of the company, said today, nearly $2,000 worth of orders for let-terheads were filled by the company.

Jay H. Maish, president of the company, said today that a plan has been been considered, which, if carried to completion, will result in a tremendous increase in the business.

LIFE INSURANCE GOOD MEASURE FOR SAFETY

In Time of Trouble Policy Helps Meet Expenses, Agents Say

Since home owning and life insurance are considered to be two of the safest and soundest investments a man can make, it is natural that life insurance selling should have linked itself with the home owning idea.

Many a man has felt uncomfortable when he has placed a mortgage on his home at the time of purchase and considered what would happen if death would remove him before he had made a substantial payment. Life insurance was used to to ease the problem and pointed out that a life insurance policy exactly the same size as the mortgage of the home could be applied by the widow to the mortgage and the home would then stand free and unencumbered as a provision to the family.

Most life insurance companies have worked out policies especially designed for such contingencies and have provisions in them that afford additional benefits to the home buyer.

LEFFLER & SON AMONG OLDEST FIRMS IN OHIO

Original Company Organized Back in 1857; Three Generations Represented

It is generally recognized by most Marion and Marion County residents that C. W. Leffler & Son, coal and building supplies company, is the oldest business of its kind in the part of Ohio. Back in 1857 Goffrey Leffler and James Colburn organized the original company, which handled building supplies and did general contracting work.

The combination lasted until Jan. 1, 1872, when Mr. Colburn dropped out and C. W. Leffler took his place. The new organization did business until 1879 when William Bland entered the business. C. W. Leffler and Mr. Bland carried on the business for 18 years or until 1897 when Mr. Goffrey Leffler retired and his son took his place. In 1922 Mr. Bland, who handled the contracting branch of the business, dropped out and retired, and Carl W. Leffler took his place. The new organization was called C. W. Leffler & Son, and has such roots to the present day.

Thus the Leffler business has lasted some 70 years through war and peace, through good years and lean years.
Three generations of Lefflers have worked to make it a lasting and worthy Marion business. The present offices are located at 116 N. High-st, where they have been since 1881. Today C.
W. Leffler & Son Co. handle coal and building supplies of all kinds. They have built up considerable work Marion people by their square dealing and excellent service and are worthy of Marion's highest praise.

A high-contrast, black and white image showing a dense, textured surface, possibly a wall or a large object, with a bright, irregularly shaped area in the upper right corner. The image is heavily degraded with noise and artifacts, making it difficult to discern specific details. The bright area in the upper right corner appears to be a reflection or a light source, while the rest of the image is dominated by dark, grainy textures.

FLOOD WATERS STRETCH OVER COUNTRYSIDE

From Cottonport to Gulf Is Matter of 10 Days' Disaster

Baton Rouge, La., May 14.—Through at last with the feeble resistance of man-made levees, the flood waters of the Mississippi spread leisurely today over a home stretch to the Gulf of Mexico. Over a whole countryside in south central Louisiana the river has had its way from Cairo to Cottonport. From Cottonport to the Gulf is a matter of 10 days' disaster in half a dozen rich and fertile parishes, comprising a tillable area of 4,200,000 acres. Within the region reside 258,917 persons.

There are more refugees today, almost 4,000 at Marksville alone, 1,500 at Bunkie, thousands more scattered along the high ground west of the new swath marked for inundation by the crumbling of the Bayou des Glaives levee.

More homes have been abandoned, more livestock perished helplessly, and the muddy levees as once again the victims of the crevasse works itself out in a new country.

To Care For 100,000

State relief headquarters here are organized to care for 100,000 more flood victims within a fortnight. They hope but do not yet venture the unqualified assertion that this will be the end.

Torrential rains in the lower valley during the last two days have forced engineers and meteorologists to revise their estimates of maximum high waters between Baton Rouge and New Orleans, and three danger points along the levees south of the Old River, the last tributary, hold the dike patrols and regimental builders to their wearying labors. If the danger points hold, the greatest flood of United States history has wrought its last dramatic destruction.

If the Old River levee at Torras caves under the undaunted residents of Pointe Coupee Parish who stand today in the most northerly part of the unbroken West-Bank Louisiana another parish of 600 square miles and 25,000 population will go under.

That surely, say the engineers, should be the end.

Must Await Few Days

Or it may be the Morgansen sector of the Mississippi levee on the west bank 55 miles north of Baton Rouge, or at Angou, on the east bank 60 miles north of Baton Rouge. Everything depends upon how much water is yet to roll down the main channel from the confluence of the Old Red and Mississippi to the Gulf. Because of the un-

Look These Propositions Over

How Many of the Following Propositions Would You Be Willing to Take?

Would You	That your car during the next 12 months $2,500 to $5,000	Would not kill anyone?
1,500 to 10,000	Would not seriously injure anyone?
150 to 12,000	Would not cause even a minor injury to anyone?
500 to 5,500	Would not cause serious damage to someone's property?
25 to 13,500	Would not cause even slight damage to someone's property?
750 to 13,000	Would not suffer almost total loss in collision?
100 to 32,000	Would not suffer a collision loss of even moderate seriousness?
$5,325 to $95,600

We Doubt If You or Any Other Car Owner Would Be Willing to Risk Money at Such Odds

Very few people would care to risk $2,500.00 just to win $5,000 at the end of the year, on the chance that their car would not fatally injure anyone during the coming year. Take even $25.00 against $13.50, which is the lowest odds of any of the above. How many automobile owners do you think would be willing to risk $25.00 on the chance of winning $13.50 provided their car would not even slightly damage some other person's property during the entire period of twelve months?

Would You?

Are You Carrying Your Own Insurance?

You will find that in our table of propositions we have used as an example a medium priced car. Just total the first three propositions—Result is $25.00, which is the premium for the $10,000.00 Public Liability.

The next two propositions total $17.00, which is the Property Damage Premium for one year.

The last two propositions total $45.00, which is the Collision premium for the $70.00 Deductible coverage.

Protect yourself against possible loss by insuring your car with all forms of insurance. Remember, Liability and Property Damage protects you for all civil law suits brought against you as a result of your own driving. Pays all hospital and medical bills of the injured parties. Provides you with the best of legal services for the settlement of all claims and, lastly, in case a judgment is awarded against you, it pays up to the amount mentioned in the policy.

RIGHT NOW is a good time to check up on your insurance. If you can spare a few minutes, we would like to go over it with you and show you what we offer. Any time at your convenience will suit us, but make it soon.
